A Verse For This Week

God's truth and faithfulness "Are a great deep." They resemble the ocean itself; always there—vast, fathomless, sublime, the same in its majesty, its inexhaustible fullness, yesterday, today, and forever; he same in calm and storm, by day and by night; changing only when generations come and pass; everlasting while ages are rolling away. —Richard Fuller

Statesboro Is Waking Up

Editor's Note: The following editorial is written by Worth McDougald, the son of the late Walter McDougald and Mrs. Isabel McDougald. Young McDougald, recently discharged from the U. S. Navy, is a student in the Emory University School of Journalism. The editorial was suggested by a news story appearing in the Atlanta Constitution and other newspapers, and is the first of more pieces by this young Statesboro man to appear in the Herald. He plans to offer weekly contributions which will be considered part of his practical training in his study to become a newspaper man. If you like the things he writes, left us know it and we'll forward your comments on to him at Emory University.

Statesboro is waking up! And people all over the nation are beginning to take notice. The wires of a national news-gathering organization recently carried the following story to newspapers and radio stations throughout the country:

"Statesboro, Ga. — Home and business construction in Statesboro has boomed during the past year with an estimated $1,500,000 spent on building during this period."

"New construction during 1946 included 104 homes, 25 business buildings and a church. This expenditure represents one of the most prosperous periods in the City's history."

The above statement is significant for two reasons. It is significant first because of the actual economic prosperity and growth Statesboro and Bulloch County has shown in this first post-war year.

Secondly, the fact that this information is being so widely spread is of special significance and importance. Under the competent leadership of our elected officials, and through the efforts of local and fraternal organizations, and through activities of individual citizens we have grown and developed. New businesses have taken their place alongside the old. We have acquired a meat packing plant, a peanut processing and storage facility, a radio station, new highways, and a new church. We hear and see plans for the future: a new hospital wing already in progress, street improvement, school improvements, and in future years perhaps a new railroad.

'A Complex Problem'

"Panacea by legislation" is doomed to failure as a solution of the complex alcohol problem, Dr. Earl F. Zeigler, Dean of the Presbyterian College of Christian Education, and Secretary of the Board of Christian Education, Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A., warns in a searching reanalysis of temperance activities.

In an article published in "The Voice," official organ of the Board of Temperance of the Methodist Church, October, 1946, Dr. Zeigler issues a vigorous "condemnation"—to use his own term—of the methods he and others have used in the past in writing or teaching Sunday School lessons: "We did a lot of name calling; appealed little to the reason; much to the emotions; handling statistics irresponsibly, always made the statistics come out favorably for 'our side'; were willing to quote anything that favored temperance without checking too closely to verify the reliability of the source material; professed to be scientific without daring to go the whole distance, refusing to admit that the alcohol problem was complex; tried to solve the problem by one bold stroke of legislation. . . . But too much dependence upon legislation, Dr. Zeigler warns, is a further admission that we do not understand the complexity of the alcohol problem. He continues:

"Panacea by legislation is doomed to failure because there are factors in the alcohol problem that require an entirely different treatment. If we are willing to admit that legislation is not a panacea, we have already solved the problem of the alcohol education. We have begun to be educated when we discover our limitations as well as our possibilities."

The dries, he said, have "made little or no distinction among people who drink. Is there a difference between the 'social drinker' and the chronic alcoholic — a difference that temperance workers must recognize?" Dr. Zeigler realistically warns that "as long as nature continues to produce the bacilli that cause fermentation, alcohol will be

... But Don't Blame Us If the Almanac Is Wrong!

FORCES ARE BEGINNING to operate in Bulloch County with the ultimate objective of calling an election to vote again on the question of whether Bulloch should remain a "dry" County or, if it shall "go wet." A chairman of the committee to guide the county campaign has been named. The "Wet" are standing pat, waiting for the "Drys" to make the first move. Bulloch County voted wet 425 to 103 in an election on Thursday, April 14, and on Saturday afternoon, April 30, Lem Gould sold the first pint of "legal" whiskey in this county since Friday, December 19, 1879.

That day in 1879 remains a red letter day in the annals of Bulloch County for the elections. When some of them get together they still talk about that day when Drew Holloway, a negro, was hanged for the murder of Benson Brown, the father of old Mike Brown. The late Mr. Mike Donaldson used to say, that the largest crowd in the history of Statesboro up to that date came to town that day to witness the hanging. He allowed as how more than 1,000 people were here. Holloway had been brought up to Statesboro from Savannah where he had been kept in the Chatham county jail for safe keeping for Bulloch county did not have a jail at that time. The hanging took place in a pine thicket where the J. A. McDougald house now stands on South Main Street. Elian McDougald was the sheriff at that time, cut the rope by which Holloway was swung.

CLIFF PEACOCK was in our office one day last week, tempting us with a string of fourteen fish, including 14 trout and two jack. The biggest trout was a five pounder and the others averaged about 2 to 2 1/2 pounds. Cliff told us that he had gone to Savannah with a basket of sausage, hogs' heads, and back bones and on his way back he got hankering for a mess of fish. "I just happened to have my rod and reel in the car," said Cliff, as he stomped the floor and laughed loud and long. "So me and Austin (his son) stopped at Blitchton and got us an old wore-out boat and put 'in the river and in about two and one-half hours we had this mess of fish."

Cliff lifted the string out of the basket he had—and they were mighty pretty. Several of us were standing around admiring them and we just knew that before Cliff left he would leave us a mess of those trout—well maybe a couple of the little bitty ones, but Cliff was too proud of those fish. He just plain walked out of here with that bunch of beautiful fish and our appetite suffered.

THE COUNTRY CLUB. Golf course is getting to be a pretty sight. The greens are beautiful with their grass carpets. The fairways are still bare, but will be pretty when the carpet grass is available to some people." And he continues:

"If the alcohol industry were the whole alcohol problem, we would seek to solve it by manipulating the bacilli so that they would no longer produce fermentation. Since the alcohol problem includes human beings, we are compelled to take them into account. Obviously we cannot kill off all the human beings who drink in order to solve the alcohol problem. . . ."

VETERANS CORNER

Can an amputee veteran select the type of artificial limb he wants and the firm he wants to buy it from? How many applications are made for domiciliary or hospital care of a veteran? Here are the answers to these and other questions frequently asked by veterans:

Q. Is VA issuing prosthetic service cards to amputee veterans? A. Yes. Veterans wearing artificial limbs who are entitled to repairs at Government expense may obtain a prosthetic service card. The card enables the veteran to obtain immediate repair service up to a limit of $35 without prior approval from the Veterans Administration.

Q. Can an amputee veteran select the type of artificial limb he wants and the firm he wants to buy it from? A. Yes, the veteran will be permitted to select the artificial limb of his choice but it must be purchased from an approved prosthetic appliance manufacturer under contract with VA.

Q. How may application be made for domiciliary or hospital care of a veteran? A. VA Form P-10, "Application for Hospital Treatment or Domiciliary Care," should be executed by the veteran or his nearest relative, guardian or representative and forwarded to the nearest VA hospital, regional office or contact office. If found eligible for admission, the veteran will be notified promptly. Any VA contact representative will offer assistance in filling out the form.

Q. Am I entitled to an increase in compensation if my service-connected disability has increased since compensation was allowed? A. Probably. The rate of increase in compensation depends upon the increase in disability as shown by proper examination by a VA physician and evaluation under the rating schedule.

The red tape of getting a patient in and out of Veterans Administration hospital will soon be a thing of the past. A new administrative procedure which relieves doctors and nurses of virtually all "paper work" and reduces to an absolute minimum the filling out of "forms in quintuplicate" is already in operation at Lawson VA hospital in Atlanta. Similar systems will be set up within the next few weeks at all 16 VA hospitals in the southeast.

Not only will the new procedure simplify the problems of a veteran entering a VA hospital, but the elimination of wasted time at admission & discharge is expected to reduce the average period of hospitalization 25 per cent.

By ending administrative responsibilities for doctors and nurses, the time of professional personnel available for treatment of patients will be increased an estimated 50 per cent.

The new procedure eliminates entirely the "receiving ward," through which all patients went in the old days for a preliminary examination.

State Dental Society, which works with VA in operating the program. Appointments are made by the branch office. In Georgia, Dr. Julius Hughes, 910 Medical Arts Building, Atlanta is chairman of the Dental Advisory Committee and Dr. J. Hilton Heard, of Macon, secretary.

Veterans wishing further information about veterans benefits should contact Jack L. Biles at the Statesboro Contact Office at 21 1/2 East Main Street.

Good Books

This week I'd like to discuss a form of literature which has been slightly neglected—non fiction.

Several volumes on various topics are now available at the library, the most interesting, I think being "Hiroshima" by John Hersey. This is the story to which the magazine, New Yorker, devoted a whole issue. It is a short book only 118 pages, and if you read it you will remember it for the rest of your life.

The story tells what happened to six people (people like you and me) when the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan.

There is a girl, who worked as a clerk in a tin factory; a widow seamstress; a physician; a Methodist preacher; a young surgeon, and a German-Catholic priest, all going about their business—nobody important, just ordinary people.

What happened to them, during and after the explosion, is told with the simplicity and economy of words which is newspaper-reporting at its best.

I had wondered, and I suppose you had too, just what action of the bomb did the most damage—the force of the explosion, the heat generated, or the radio-activity. This book tells all about it and without saying a word about the political side of things, is the most fervent plea possible for stern control.

OUT ON A LIMB — By Louise Baker. "Out on a Limb" (by the author of "Party Line") is the most courageous and light-hearted book I've read in a long time. When she was eight years old, Louise had an accident (on a bicycle) resulting in the loss of her right leg. Everyone in town, naturally, was sorry for her, and showered her with gifts. Louise promptly decided to make hay while the sun shone, and worked the situation for all it was worth. Her father, a brave and wise man gave her a spanking, or else there is no telling what would have happened. She speaks from experience when she says, "Granted that Fate has cast an evil designing eye on an appendage, let her make the graceful gesture, and snip while the victim is young."

A child has a better chance of adjusting to a situation like this and it wasn't long until Louise was up and about on crutches and then on roller skates. Later in life, she even took to skiing.

The book proves that loss of a limb needn't be a handicap. It contains some very good advice for amputees, especially when it discusses artificial devices, and should be required reading in all veterans' hospitals.

LAST CHAPTER by Ernie Pyle. Last Chapter is Ernie Pyle's last book and perhaps his best. As everyone knows, he was killed on Ie Shima, while collecting material for this volume. The sign which the soldiers put up at the place where he fell, tells the whole story: "At this spot, the 7th Infantry Division lost a buddy, Ernie Pyle, 18 April, 1945."

If you are interested in the library also has a copy of Eugene O'Neill's new play, "The Iceman Cometh."

TEN FAVORITE MYSTERIES. Here is the list of my ten favorite mysteries, which I promised to produce this week. When I got to writing them down, I had a list of nearly thirty, and it was hard to make a choice, but here it is:

(1) "The Listening House," by Mable Seely. This is the best one I ever read, or expect to read. It is tops. (2) "Murder Must Advertise," by Dorothy Sayers. (3) "The Nine Tailors" by Dorothy Sayers. (4) "Strong Poison" by Dorothy Sayers, (5)

Busman's Honeymoon" by (you have guessed it)—Dorothy Sayers. I have a weakness for her books and wish she would write more often. (6) "Dinner at Peers" by Ngaio Marsh. (7) "Passing Strange" by Richard Sale. (8) "Lazarus No. 7" by Richard Sale. (Here's another author who doesn't produce often enough.) (9) "Green for Danger" by Christianna Brand. (10) "Heads for a Hearse" by Jonathan Latimer.

Honorable Mention should go to "Pearls Before Swine," by Margery Allingham, by Christopher Hale "The So-Blue Marble" by Dorothy Hughes, and "Cradle in Fear" by Anita Bontell.

Have you noticed that the ladies seem to be taking over the mystery writing field? Look over the shelves the next time you are in the library—it's the women, two to one.

You can't make Apple Sauce from automobiles

Remember the old story? Where the teacher said: "Jimmy, how would you divide three apples among four people?" And Jimmy answered: "Make apple sauce!"

We wish Jimmy could solve our problem that easily. So far we've led the whole world in production of postwar cars . . . delivering thousands of 1946 Fords. But we still have unfilled orders for over a million more.

You know the reason for the lag in filling those orders . . . the labor shortages, the material shortages, and all those other hitches in getting back to normal.

That doesn't leave us many apples to divide. And as fair and square as we try to be, we just can't make apple sauce from automobiles. But what we can do is tell you what a great Ford you've got coming up in your future.

And while you're waiting, one other thing we can do is urge you to let us keep an eye on your present Ford to protect your safety, comfort and investment.

Your Ford Dealer

WE REALIZE . . . that the present abnormal demand for automobiles will not last forever; that the day will come when WE SHALL BE KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR asking for business. Therefore, as in the past, we are endeavoring to so conduct our business that we may always merit your confidence and respect.

BULLOCH FARMERS DISCUSS PROGRAM

Bulloch county tobacco growers will be interested in the stabilization program for this season, according to the discussions at Farm Bureau meetings over the county following the annual meeting where the program was first brought to their attention.

The Denmark, Brooklet, and Sinkhole chapters discussed the program last week and generally felt that it was a step that could not be overlooked on the local market. Some expressed hope that it would prevent the drop in prices toward the close of the market.

Denmark voted to have supper meetings each month. It is the past this chapter has served a motion picture, studied the part railroads play in agriculture and every other phase of local living.

A listing of the members desiring telephone service in the Sinkhole community was made. Rural phone service is now being made available to Evans county, which takes in many of the neighbors of the Sinkhole members.

expense of the new spray formula he stated that this would cost some 60 cents per season to carry out an effective spray schedule on 100 yards of bed where the fumigant alone would cost about $1.25 per 100 yards. As a dust would cost about $4.00 per 100 yards and the bismuth spray cost some $2.00 per 100 yards; all of which makes the new formula the most effective and least expensive of any of the sprays.

Mr. Gaines recommended that 4 tablespoons of salicylic acid (or vatsol-OT), 3/4 pint of fumigant and 25 gallons of water be mixed. If only 7 gallons of spray is needed, use 6 tablespoons of fumigant, one of salicylic acid, and one of vatsol be mixed together. Vatsol is purely a wetting agent to make the other materials mix with water.

Statesboro Airport Leased To F.E. Boshears, Augusta

Ogeechee FB Has Vension Supper

Vension was on the menu for the Ogeechee Farm Bureau meeting Tuesday night. The group will be held at the airport on February 1. He and his brother will maintain the field and operate a flying school which will be open to individuals as well as to veterans under the G. I. training program. They will also operate planes for charter and will operate a maintenance service for private owners of planes.

The Boshears brothers have operated a flying school at Augusta since 1940. F. E. Boshears, who will be the manager of the Statesboro setup, has been flying for over ten years with five years as an instructor, including three years as an Army instructor.

To begin operations they will have three training planes here, and they expect to maintain one twin engine plane for charter service.

R. Widem is with Mr. Boshears as an aviation mechanic. A veteran, he served three years in the Air Force with 479th Service Squadron in New Guinea, the Philippines and Australia.

Both Mr. Boshears and Mr. Widem are single and are converting one of the buildings on the airfield into temporary living quarters. "Since one of us must be on the field twenty-four hours, this seems to be the best way," stated the two flyers.

Ogeechee made a listing of those desiring telephone service and had a report on the national and county conventions by R. P. Mikell.

The groups all discussed the resolutions passed at the recent county meeting.

Parking Meters Planned For Statesboro Streets

Statesboro motorists will soon be paying for the privilege of parking as long as they like on the main streets of the business section of the city.

Mayor J. Gilbert Cone stated this week that the city council voted unanimously at the last regular meeting to install parking meters in the business section of the city, and named Councilmen A. B. McDougald, Imman Foy and W. W. Woodcock as a committee to handle the details and contract for their purchase and installation.

M. McDougald stated that approximately 200 meters will be set up. Original plans called for 137 meters located as follows: 28 on West Main from Walnut St. to the traffic light, 23 on S. Main from Vine St. to the traffic light on North Main from Courtland St. to the traffic light, 20 on East Main from Oak St. to the traffic light, and 30 on the East and North sides of the court house. Later plans extend the location of the meters along each of four main streets to total approximately 200 meters.

He stated that the change was authorized by the Statesboro Board of Education at its meeting on January 13. The board is making a series of investigations of schools which have twelve grades and will determine the procedure to set up for the Statesboro school from its findings.

Mr. McDougald states that the installation of parking meters is designed to solve the traffic and parking problem rather than as a source of income for the city. He explained that the meters being considered are the best that can be had. When they are installed a motorist may park his car for one cent to reach 12 minutes he can park for 25 cents. The meter takes pennies or a nickel for an hour. When the time paid for expires a clock begins ticking and the motorist must return to the meter to stop the clock. If he fails to do so, the meter will automatically call the police to remove the car.

The show sale here will be one of the first in Georgia, the first to be held at LaGrange on March 11, and the last at Sylvania on May 1.

Each year there were 20 shows in the state and farmers' and 4-H club members sold 3,288 head of beef for $543,926.
